Tropicana Improves Player Experience

Brand new games and a new layout enhance excitement, comfort and convenience

ATLANTIC CITY, NJ (March 29, 2012) —In some game-changing moves, Tropicana Casino & Resort looks to improve its players' experience at the tables, on the slots and in front of the kiosks.

Tantalizing New Table Games

Always a haven for high rollers, the Tropicana has now introduced two new games for those who've always wanted to try the tables but were too intimidated before. The first game is I-Table Roulette which features a dealer-manned roulette table that combines electronic betting stations with a live dealer to spin the ball and make transactions.

"The game has a bold table display and with no chips involved the game moves quickly and smoothly. The dealer runs the game, but also has time to help beginners and interact more with our guests," said Steve Callender, Tropicana's Sr. Vice President of Casino Operations.

The second new addition to table games is EZ Baccarat, which is a mini baccarat game that does not have a commission charge for playing. The rules of the game are the same. The only exception is that when the banker hand wins with a three card total of 7, the hand is a push. By eliminating the commission you can speed up the game, and you don't have to worry about the dealer making a mistake in your commission box. The Dragon 7 Bet will also be available on the game.

Lots More Slots

The Quarter has gained 20 new slot machines to rev up the energy in Old Havana, including the ever-popular Hangover as well as Playboy themed slot machines.

And More...More

To further enhance the player experience, the Tropicana has restructured many of its slot aisles, making the floor more comfortable for its guests. Upon completion, more Cash & Comp Kiosks will be installed, which will decrease wait times at the machines. Some existing kiosk areas will also be changed to accommodate more machines, which will enhance the one stop shop experience.

"Our goal in making these improvements, additions and changes was to make our players feel valued and renew the excitement of the Tropicana experience," said Tony Rodio, President and Chief Operating Officer of Tropicana Entertainment.
